

ron price

Treasure Inside: 23 UNEXPECTED Principles That Activate GREATNESS

Principle 4: Possibilities

1. Set aside one hour in the next few days to explore your potential. Write across the top of a page, “What is my true potential in life?” Then jot down whatever answers come into your mind.
 - X Journal about what kind of person you could become if you pursued it with focus and discipline. This is your character potential.
 - X Journal about the greatest goals you can imagine achieving. This helps to define your achievement potential.
 - X Journal about your greatest dreams for prosperity and abundance. This will help define your reward potential.
2. Make a list of what other people have told you about your potential (what you do well, what they recognize as unique talent, and so on). What can you learn about your future potential by contemplating this list?
3. What childhood dreams about your future did you have? Have you achieved them? Are you still pursuing them?